LETTER FROM THE PRESIDENT

Dear friends,

Supported by a mission statement that centers on the success of students and the region it serves, the 2018 Northeast Community College Graduate Report showcases the accomplishments of our students within months of leaving us to become productive members of the labor force or to continue their academic journey.

Our work at Northeast Community College delivers on our promise to provide a high quality educational experience for students, ensuring that they complete their educational goals, and be assured that students are employed in the area related to their career path or continue on to the next level of education.

We are pleased to report that 99 percent of our graduates say they are either working or continuing their education. The data points out that of the students who entered the workforce, 85 percent are employed in their field of study. The report goes on to say that 85 percent of our graduates who entered the workforce are employed in Nebraska; and that 58 percent of them are making a living in the College's 20-county service area in Northeast and North Central Nebraska.

A special note of appreciation is extended to Director of Career Services, Terri Heggemeyer, and her assistant, Amy Koehler. They have a passion for this work as they diligently reach out to every Northeast graduate in order to compile the data and to ensure accuracy for this report. This year, 97 percent of graduates responded to the survey, which is stellar especially considering the high mobility of our graduates.

The 2018 Graduate Report not only serves as our report card to you, but it also showcases the end result of our work to educate and develop the next generation of America's workforce.

Thank you for your continued support of Northeast and our nation's community colleges!

Michael R. Chipps, Ph.D.
President

Northeast not only contributes to the workforce through our skilled graduates and training programs, our regional economic impact is substantial to the northeast region of Nebraska. In a study conducted by Economic Modeling Specialists Intl. in 2018, it was found that Northeast contributed $236.3 million to the regional economy through our graduates each year. This figure represents the higher earnings that students earned during the year, the increased output of the businesses that employed the students, and the multiplier effects that occurred as students and their employees spent money at other businesses. This added income is equivalent to supporting 4,053 jobs.

NURSING STUDENT TAKES UNIQUE PATH TO NORTHEAST

By Erin Bell
Norfolk Daily News

Making the switch from construction to nursing might seem like a dramatic change.

But to Chris Wood, it felt right.

Originally from Lincoln, Wood saw entering the construction field straight out of high school as a natural fit, considering that his father was a construction superintendent.

He grew up learning everything about it, so it felt “easy.”

But he had reached a point of frustration.

“It’s not that I disliked it, but I just disliked where the field of construction was going — cheaper, faster, no real pride,” Wood said.

That realization would eventually lead Wood to Northeast Community College and its nursing program.

At first, though, Wood enrolled in the radiologic technology program at Southeast Community College in Lincoln. That happened to be around the time he met the woman who would become his wife.

She was accepted into the physician’s assistant program at Union College, meaning Wood would go back to work full-time while she finished her degree. When she graduated, the couple — who have two children — relocated to Norfolk and Wood revisited finishing school.

Northeast has its accreditation through Southeast for its radiologic technology program, but Wood said he realized the demand for that degree had dwindled.

“So I talked to Michelle Gill, who is the dean (of health and wellness), and kind of asked her, ‘I have these credits, what else can I do without taking a giant step backwards and starting over?’” he said.

“She pointed me in the direction of nursing.”

Another talk with Karen Weidner, director of nursing programs, cued him into all the options nursing provided.

After enrolling, starting clinicals — which students do in their first semester of Northeast’s nursing program — solidified to Wood that he had made the right choice. He also started working as a nurse’s aide and then as a licensed practical nurse (LPN) at the Norfolk Veterans Home.

Wood, who has served as the president of the Student Nurses Association at Northeast, has a job lined up as a nurse in the surgery department at Faith Regional Health Services once he passes boards.

“I really, really enjoy (surgery),” Wood said. “I guess when I started, it’s what I thought I would like the most. I think coming from construction, you have this kind of fix-it mentality, and that probably relates the closest.”

Chris Wood delivers the student address during Northeast Community College’s Nurse Pinning Ceremony in May 2018.

Wood said he is appreciative of the education he’s received at Northeast. He described the atmosphere as tight-knit and appreciated the communication at the College.

“I haven’t had an instructor who I didn’t think was great or very concerned about the student succeeding,” Wood said. “If there was ever anything I was struggling with, they’d always help me. ... Every teacher knows every student on a first-name basis. It feels more like family than anything.”

Plus, he’s had plenty of hands-on experience in the College’s skills lab, which is complete with a range of mannequins for students to practice on. He also appreciates the balance of instructors — some of whom will coddle if needed and others who will give you a straight answer.

“I’m just really thankful for the whole opportunity here,” Wood said. “I feel like it was just a different experience than I’ve had anywhere else.”

CHRIS WOOD THRIVING IN CURRENT ROLE

"The best job I've ever had." That's how Chris Wood describes his role as a nurse in the surgery department at Faith Regional Health Services, which he began after graduating from Northeast in May 2018. "I'm surprised by how well my personality meshes with everyone in the surgery department. Each area of nursing takes a certain type of person. And I definitely made the right choice."

In his role, Wood performs a number of tasks in the operating room, including charting, examining the patient before surgery, verifying allergies, setting up the space for surgery, working with surgical technicians to bring the equipment into the room, and meeting with the surgeon to discuss their needs. When surgery begins, Wood serves as a "gopher" for supplies and instruments that may unexpectedly be needed. "We pretty much run circles around the room the whole time."

Wood says his education at Northeast prepared him well for his job. "Northeast does a great job preparing everyone for floor nursing. A lot of those skills translate into other forms of nursing," he says.

The considerations that go into a single surgical procedure are nearly endless, Wood says. "One surgeon will do a knee replacement, and another surgeon will do a knee replacement, and there are just so many different considerations between the medications and antibiotics they prefer to use, the position of the patient, and more. I think after about two months, I started writing notes, pages and pages of them."

Faith Regional, a 131-bed acute care facility, employs more than 1,200 individuals, making it one of the Norfolk area's major employers. "Not a lot of people realize how much opportunity is here," Wood says.

Wood encourages anyone interested in becoming a surgical nurse to explore the possibility by job shadowing. "If you think it's something you'd like to do, but you haven't actually seen it, it's a good idea to experience it first."
